THE BEFORT that the Samoan Islands have been annexed to the United States is interesting and rather amusing withal so far, as it appears to have been altogether a one-sided affair, consisting of Banner " at the King's house, at Point Molinu, on which by the way was the Queen's Birth Day. A short time previously, a deputation of the Samoan Chiefs had gone to the Fifis to offer the sovereignty of their Islands to the British Queen : but were advised by Sir Arthur Gordon to reconsider the proposal, and be more explicit in stating what was the exact nature of their application-It would appear that they feel some irritation at Sir Arthur's reply, and now the next we hear of the Samoans is, that they want to become Republicans under the ægis of Columbia. It remains to be seen what course the United States Government will follow under the circumstances. Hitherto, that government has declined to annex territory extraneous to the North American Continent. The case of San Domingo, occurs to the mind, as a precedent of the United States policy in this respect. In 1853, King Kamehameha III, made a formal offer of these Islands to the Government of the United States, which the Secretary of that day. Daniel Webster, formally declined, on the general principle of non-annexation of foreign non-American territory. At the same time, Mr. Webster declared the United States Government was disposed to uphold the independence of the Hawaiian Islands. It is probable that some such reply will now be made by President Hayes' Government to the Samoans. The conduct of the English Consul, Mr. Liardet, at the King's feast on the occasion, was ridiculous, and probably Lord Derby will give him a wigging for it. With these remarks we append the following extract from the Sydney Morning Herald :-SAMOA ANNEXED TO AMERICA .- The Fiji Times of June 13th says that news has been received that the American flag has been hoisted at Samoa and allegiance formally tendered to the United States. Some strange rumours are current with respect to this movement; but we forbear, for the present at least, from giving them publicity. The Lurline, the arrival of which may be daily exintelligence. The N. Z. Herald says :- "The American flag has been hoisted at Samoa, and unless the action of the Consul is repudiated by the authorities at Washington, the islands of the Navigators' Group will henceforward have to be accounted as in the possession of the American Government. A short time ago we gave the parsamoan chiefs to Fiji, whither they had gone to endeavour to persuade Governor Sir Arthur Gordon to take possession of Samoa for Great Britain. Apparently, the Samoan chiefs had not got any encouragement, for on their return home, the American Consul (Mr. Griffin) commenced nego-tiations to have the American flag hoisted. All the preliminaries were completed on the night of the 23rd of May, a number of documents having been signed, and on the morning of the 24th the American flag was hoisted at the King's house, at Point Molinu, on the west side of the Apia harbour. A salute of twenty-one guns was fired from the other side of the harbour. The American clipper barque Menshikoff was lying at Apia at the time, and an American man-of-war is expected shortly. A grand least was given at the King's house, and all the white inhabitants were invited to go. Thakombau's son, from Fiji, and the English Consul. Mr. Liardet, went to where the feast was being held, and said they would join them if they would haul down the American flag while they were there. The natives, however, declined to haul down the flag, even temporarily, and Prince Timothy and the English Consul left. Mr. Griffin, the American Consul has recently visited Washington; but it was not stated that he had question are brightening, and that there are good grounds to hope that important additions to our population may erelong arrive from the South Sea Islands, and other sources. We learn that government intends to dispatch an Agent, by the next steamer from San Francisco, to the Fijis, via Auckland, who will be instructed to confer with the British Governor of the Fijis, Sir Arthur Gordon, on the subject of the importation into this country of South Sea Islanders, with a view to obtain His Excellency's sympathy and approval therefor. He will also be empowered to make the necessary arrangements for the immediate despatch of a first batch of South Sea Islanders to this port, if they are to be had at the Fijis, as it is hoped. It may be found necessary to fix upon Auckland as a depot where these South Sea Islanders can be gathered in from the various points, and thence sent on to this port by the P. M. Company's steamers, in lots of twenty-five or more individuals, with their women, if possible, likewise. This matter is now brought to a very satisfactory stage, through the energy of government. The appointment and proximate departure of this Immigration Agent, for the Fijis, will have the result of determining the question whether our labor market can be in part recruited from this source. We understand that the gentleman appointed by the Board of Immigration to act as its Agent in this important business, is eminently qualified for the position, and, as the bearer of Major Wodehouse's letter, he may expect to meet with a favorable reception from Sir Arthur Gordon. We congratulate the planters on the high degree of probability-not to say certainty-of a supply of labor being shortly obtained from the South and promising arrangements of our government is a likelihood that immigrants may be obtained. This government, we are informed, has lately received a communication from Dr. Wm. Hillebrand, long and favorably known as a resident on these Islands, at present living with his by life-long bondage? Looking back, through From the tenor of Dr. Hillebrand's letter, it of the Gospel, does not the apostle Paul himgrants-married men with their wives and chil- first christiang unto death? Does he not own dren, can easily be induced to come and settle himself a murderer? Nevertheless, are not all on these Islands, and that the government of nations of the christian world indebted to their emigration. As a section of the population of this country speaks the Portuguese language, the new comers from Madeira will at once feel themselves quite at home here. On the whole, this appears to be one of the most promising of the government has as yet taken in hand to recruit the fading population of Hawaii nei. On a previous occasion, we have alluded to a locality on the Island of Kauai known as the the ceremony of hoisting the "Star Spangled land of Mana, which is of considerable extent and fertility, but without running water. This the west side of Apia harbour, on May 24th, land, we have believed, might be made highly profitable, in an agricultural point of view, by obtaining a sufficient water supply from the Waimea River, by means of canalization. We now hear that a hydranlic work of this nature is contemplated by an old settler on Kauai. Mr. Valdemar Knudsen, a native of the land of Tycho Brahe and Canute the Great. The undertaking is a grand one, and will cost a large sum of money, but it is believed that the results will be sufficiently by profitable to amply warrant the expense. Mr. Knudsen we learn intends to submit to the Board of Immigration a proposal for the introduction of a certain number of families of " Northmen "-of the old Scandinavian stockat least ten or twelve married couples with their children, for the purpose of settling them down on the lands of Mana and Waimea. This is one more scheme of immigration of very promising and satisfactory character, which may come in opportunely with others already on the tapis for the introduction of East Indians, South Sea Islanders, Madeira Islanders, and the ubiquitous Chinese. The "Northmen" are a hardy laborious race, and the advent to Hawaii nei of any number of families from old Scandinavia, with their pretty blue-eyed, flaxenhaired Norse maidens, should be hailed with extreme satisfaction by the King, the government, the country at large, and more especially by the bachelors, old and young of Hawaii neiwithout prejudice to the winning maids of th

WE PROCEED to make some remarks on the question of capital punishments, as we preposed, under the impression that it is a du incumbent upon all those who conscientious believe that capital punishment is a prerog tive of the Almighty alone, to protest again its exercise by men, on all occasions whe a capital sentence has been passed upon an human being, however criminal. It is hardly necessary to remark that capits punishment is now only inflicted in civilize countries on criminals convicted of willfa murder, or high treason. In former time men were hanged even for sheep-stealing. appears then, that public opinion has some what improved on the subject of capital pur ishment, and society would now be horrifie at the idea of a man being hanged for stealin a sheep. At present, we can safely assert the a great many people are equally horror-stricke at the fact of any human being, however load ed with crime, being executed unto death. Theirs is not a mere humane sentiment; it is based upon higher considerations. Such people generally are believing christians; they are protestants, more commonly, then of any other denomination. They are Bible readers, almost always, and, in a word, people who really believe in God's word, and God's judgments and justice. These people, who shudder at capital punishment here in this life, mostly profess a belief in the life to come; they expect to behold the Eternal Judge, on the great accounting-day, dealing justice and judgment to his creatures, according to their deserts in this moral life. They say: let society by all means guard itself from any repetition of the bloody deed of the murderer, by holding him in bondage until death; but let not society arrogate to itself the prerogative if the Eternal We are glad to be able to state that the prospects of our labor market and the immigration Judge, by taking away life, that mysterious gift of the Almighty Creator of mankind, which He seemed to respect Himself in the case of the first murderer on record in Holy Writ, whose life He spared, while He placed the murderer under a ban : but nevertheless. threatened the slayer of that banned murderer with sevenfold vengeance at the hands of the Maker of Men, and their Eternal Judge. For those who believe in Holy Writ, the case of Cain is conclusive-God threatening with his vengeance those who lift their hand against the life of the murderer. If capital punishment has since prevailed, it is because Holy Writ has lost its influence over the minds of the children of mortality. Writing, as we do, in this interesting division of the christian world, where the sublime truths of Holy Writ have been so recently introduced with such happy results amongst a once heathen and benighted race of savages, we are struck by a fact which must always give rise to a significant suggestion, when sentence of capital punishment is about to be executed upon any miserable human being. Of the first christians of Hawaii nei, how many had been murderers, in the times of their heathen benightment? In reading with thrilling interest the book of the eloquent historian of the Hawaiian Protestant Missions, (Bingham), this fact is freequently noted and the wonderful mercy of God in calling even murderers to clothe themselves with the white garment of His invited guests in His Holy House is a contant source of admiration for the pious historiographer. The case of one Hawaiian savage, whose crimes were blacker than those of the most dreadful murderer ever execu-Seas, as a result of the present very satisfactory ted in any civilized country, and who became a shining light in the earliest Hawaiian church, ought surely to produce an impression upon But there is another quarter from which there | thinking minds in this community, and suggest the query; Is it not best after all to leave the murderer in the hands of God, and limit our course to simply removing him from the possibility of ever again committing murder, family on the Portuguese Island of Madeira. the light of Holy Writ, to the first propagation appears that a number of Portuguese immi- self avow that he was guitly of persecuting the Madira will interpose no serious obstacles to the inspired teaching of the once blood-thirsty

But the most important feature of seinding from the circumstances, however atrothis immigration would be the circumstance that cious, which attended the heinous offence for which a criminal now lies under sentence of death in Oahu Jail.

Report of the Secretary of the Queen's Hospital.

HONOLULU, July 3d, 1877. To the Corporators of and Subscribers to the Queen's Hospital:

GENTLEMEN: A biennial period having elapsed since the date of your last meeting, I now have the honor to make the The affairs of the Queen's Hospital have been conducted in a legal manner and strictly in accordance with the provisions of the Charter, and its continued prosperity and usefulness is in a messure evidenced in the reports now being laid before There have been during the period under review eight regular and three special meetings of the Board of Trustees,

The old gravel or patent roof has been covered by one of corrugated iron at an expense of $3,060, which sum covers cost of painting and repairs to verandahs &c. A new dining room has been added on the South end of the main building and a new building of wood two stories in height has been erected North of the main structure at a total cost of $5,282, containing wards, dining room etc., for foreign patients. From a carefully prepared statement given me by the Pur-veyor, Mr. Toel, I gather the following interesting facts. Of 1761 persons treated during the two years, 798 were inloor and 962 dispensary patients, showing a decrease of 52 from the total number reported at your last meeting. The faily average of indoor patients has been 78 and of dispensary patients 8. Of the 799 indoor patients 64 have died, being in he rate of eight per cent, -an increase of one and one third per cent over the preceeding blennial period. The number of prescriptions made up was 44,238. Receipts from foreign patients amounted to $4,996 75, and the current expenses have been $26,342,15. The Report of the Treasurer shows an estimated balance on the 1st of July of $774.29. The last Legislature appropriated for aid to the "Queen's Hospital" for the two years ending 31st March, 1878, $21.000; besides the taxes from the Hawailan Seamen and Passengers, which is estimated at $4,000. The aid from the government and the income from "pay patents" will suffice for the support of the Hospital, unless the cost of food and medicines should further increase beyond their present high figures. At the beginning of the present year, the Hon. E. H. Allen, who has served your Society continuously as its Vice Presiient and presiding officer since his appointment in July, 1867, dent and presiding officer since his appointment in July, 1807, terminated his extended connection with you in consequence of his change of residence. His Majesty has appointed His Honor C. C. Harris to the vacancy.

Your Secretary, in conclusion, takes pleasure in bearing witness to the zeal and usefulness displayed by your Physician Dr. R. McKibbin, and Purveyer Mr. Toel, in their several trusts, to whom the present efficient state of the Institution is due in a large degree.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN H. PATY, Secretary.

The Wine Question.

MR. EDITOR: The letter of the Reverend W. Frear in your last issue affords me an opportunity to ask for information on a matter which has long perplexed my mind, and if you will kindly allow me the space, I will propound my difficulty, and I trust that Mr. Frear in his capacity of teacher of the people will explain the thing, either through the medium of the press, or in one of his Sunday evening discourses, so that light may shine where there now is darkness.

The great proportion of the Christian church believe and maintain that the founder of Christianity was none other than the divine and supreme Being whom we worship-that he was God incarnate. If this be true, it appears to me like arrant blasphemy to condemn any practice in which he may have indulged, for if he were God any sinful or "unchristlan" act was an utter impossibility with him. Neither can it be said that He from whom proceeds all light did not enjoy the light with which this age is blessed. That Christ babitually indulged in the "social habit of wine-drinking " is a fact as clearly settled as anything in the history of his life. His first recorded miracle was done to replenish the exhausted store of wine at a wedding feast, and, as is intimated by the remark of the governor of the feast, the new made wine was of a much better quality than was commonly on such occasions, wasted on the boozy throng of revelers. The New Testament records not a single word from the lips of Christ, deprecatory of the use of wine.

I am aware that desperate attempts have been made from time to time to prove that the wine which Christ used and made was non-alcoholic and unintoxicating, but the arguments of the tetotalists are so clearly based on their opinions of what is right and wrong, and the weight of evidence is so conclusively opposed to the theory, that no candid person can for a moment entertain it. Thus we behold the spectacle of teachers of the nineteenth century condemning him, whom they at the same time adore as their God, for "a practice from which barm and sorrows come to humanity. The two borns of the dilemma are apparent. On which one shall we seize. Shall we become Unitarians, and take the ground that Christ with the best of intentions, was not omniscient, and that his example is not in all respects the thing for us, in this age of light, to imitate, and thus be enabled consistently to oppose the practise of social wine drinking? Or shall we believe him to be our God in whom there can be no evil, and from whom can emanate no influences which can injuriously affect humanity, and under the authorization of his life-long practise, continue to indulge temperately in the use of wine? SEEKER AFTER TRUTH.
